ALEXANDER STATE FOREST

Woodworth, Louisiana

Alexander State Forest was established in 1923 when the state purchased 2,068 acres for $12,500 from Mrs. Eloise Polk Burrows. Though originally intended to be the first of several state-owned demonstration forests, today it is the only one. The Forest was named in honor of M. L. Alexander, Louisiana's first commissioner of conservation and a relative of Mrs. Burrows.

Nine additional purchases of adjacent properties over the next 15 years expanded Alexander State Forest to its present size of almost 8,000 acres. The multiple-use forest contains approximately 700 acres of hardwood bottomland, 4,800 acres of loblolly, slash and longleaf pines, and 2,250 acres in Indian Creek Lake. It is managed for timber production, forestry research, and recreation. In addition, the forest is a game management area.

Shortly after the turn of the century, most of the area was cut-over and left barren, but today Alexander State Forest is an excellent example of reforestation. It contains an estimated 35 million board feet of timber, and some 1.5 million board feet are harvested annually. From 1933 to 1940, a Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) camp was located on the Forest. During this period the Corps hand planted much of the land to pine and constructed the 35 miles of excellent road system still in use today. The CCC enrollees at the State Forest camp, all World War I veterans, also built the log administration building. This building is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The 175-foot Woodworth Tower in the Forest's headquarters compound is believed to be the world's tallest fire tower.

The State Forest, including Indian Creek Recreation Area, is maintained largely by inmates from the Work Training Facility/North at Camp Beauregard through an agreement with the Louisiana Department of Public Safety and Corrections. The program has been highly successful from its inception in 1970 and has served as a model for other public agencies using inmate labor.

RECREATION AREA

Within the Alexander State Forest is Indian Creek Recreation Area, with 100 acres of developed recreation facilities, 250 acres of primitive camping area, and the 2,250-acre Indian Creek Lake. The lake was constructed as a joint venture of the Louisiana Forestry Commission, the Rapides Parish Police Jury and the Lower West Red River Soil and Water Conservation District as a reservoir to be used for agricultural irrigation in times of need and for recreation purposes.

Indian Creek Recreation Area contains 71 campsites with conventional hookups, swimming areas, bath houses, a boat launch ramp and some 75 picnic sites. A pavilion within the developed area will accommodate groups of up to 100 people.

The primitive camping area is designed primarily for tent camping. Only parking and camping spaces are provided; there are no other facilities.

The recreation area is open year round. All revenue collected through user fees is returned to Indian Creek Recreation Area for operational expenses. From October 1 to February 1, special winter rates are available.

Facilities are available on a first-come basis only, except for the pavilion. It is recommended that pavilion reservations be made as far in advance as possible, especially for use during outdoor months, because demand for this facility is heavy.

Camping on Alexander State Forest is restricted to designated areas in the Indian Creek Recreation Area.

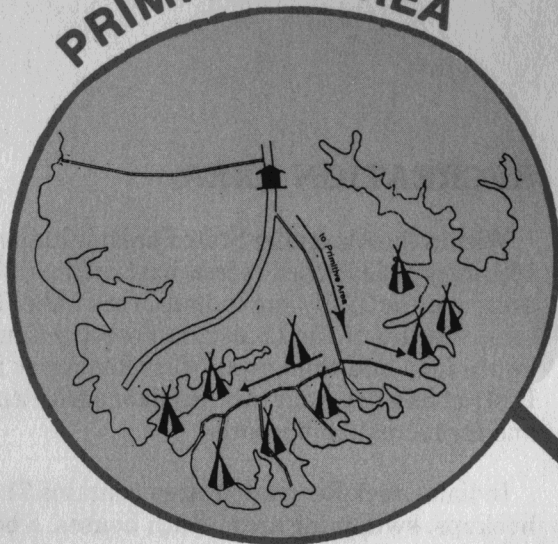

Indian Creek Hiking Trail is a two-and-a-half mile long path through mixed pine-hardwood forest. The trail traverses uplands and minor stream bottoms, providing access to a variety of habitats and plant species. A wide variety of animal and bird species utilize this habitat including the endangered red-cockaded woodpecker.

The trail follows the shore of Indian Creek Lake in some places providing scenic viewing and photographic opportunity. There is easy access to the Trail on foot from the entrance station, camping area and primitive area. It is marked by a sign at each road crossing and is marked along its length by white painted marks on trees.
